POPE SNUBS OUTCAST MEL!

Scandalous Gibson ISN'T WELCOME at all-celeb Vatican powwow

POPE FRANCIS is hosting a star-studded sit-down at the Vatican later this year, and guess who's NOT invited: Mega-Catholic movie star Mel Gibson!

And not only is Mad Max a persona non grata at the papal powwow, sources say he won't get a face-to-face meeting when the pontiff makes his first visit to America in September.

"Mel is devastated," says a source. "He's a devout Catholic who made a blockbuster film about Jesus and even built his own chapel near his home in Malibu."

"But clearly that's not enough to make the Vatican turn a blind eye to public rages, domestic violence and his volatile reputation."

Invitees Oprah Winfrey and Matt Damon

Insiders say Gibson, who directed 2004's The Passion of Christ, will remain an outcast until he mends fences. His private, "traditionalist" Catholic Church doesn't recognize the Pope's authority, which is a problem for Rome, says a source.

Mel's wild rants against Jews have also embarrassed the Vatican. And the church reportedly takes issue with Mel over charges that he battered his baby mama, Oksana Grigorieva.

"The Vatican believes having Mel around would be a major distraction," says a Vatican insider. "The church views him as a troublemaker, given to wild outbursts and radical views."

While Gibson sits home, other celebs including Oprah Winfrey, Matt Damon, producers David Geffen and Brian Grazer, and super-agent Ari Emanuel will be in Rome helping the Catholic Church polish its image with global media.

"Pope Francis has firmly rejected Gibson," a friend adds. "I don't think even a personal appeal to the Pope would succeed in getting him into the conclave."

HILLARY CLINTON has confessed she's terrified of Republican presidential frontrunner Donald Trump, sources tell GLOBE.

In a shocking breakdown, Democrat Hillary confided to pals the New York billionaire knows all her dirty secrets and is the only candidate who can dash her White House dreams.

"Hillary and Bill have been friends with Trump for years," says an insider.

"She attended his third wedding, and Bill has been a golf partner. Donald knows a lot of secrets about them and he's brutally honest."

She told pals, "Donald can destroy me. He scares the hell out of me."

Hillary's already reeling from the explosive scandal surrounding the top secret e-mails she sent from her personal computer server while serving as President Barack lems, which she's desperately trying to hide from America.

Cracking under pressure

"With her White House bid teetering, Hillary is cracking under the pressure" and friends say the self-confessed alcoholic may fall off the wagon as details of the three strokes she's tried to hide are exposed.

"Rest assured The Donald has all the dirt on Hillary. She's absolutely terrified Trump is going to blow her out of the water," says the source.

And Trump knows it, revealing, "I'm the last person

she wants to face."

Clinton has been considering a full-scale attack on the mogul and has already lashed out at Trump for his comments about Fox GOP presidential debate mediator Megyn Kelly.

Calling his remarks "outrageous," Hillary added, "I think the guy went way overboard."

But Clinton is going down a dangerous path. A political expert says "taking a pot shot at Trump is a risky move because he fights back."

And Donald took a swing at Hillary after her attack saying, "She is desperate. She is sad...and she is very nervous.

"Hillary should spend more time producing her illegally hidden e-mails. There is no way she can continue to run and be nominated under the cloud of an FBI investigation."

One insider told GLOBE, "When he's elected Donald will not have any sympathy for Hillary. He will get to the bottom of every scandal she's tried to brush under the carpet. That includes the truth about her top secret e-mails, lining her own pockets with dirty money and treacherous double-dealing. Trump will send her to jail."

SUBWAY PERV JARED IN PRISON PICKLE!

DISGRACED Subway subs pitchman Jared Fogle is headed to the big house with a bull's-eye on his back as hardened criminals prepare to deliver a harsh dose of jailhouse justice to the child molester.

The creep, who touted Subway sandwiches as a way to lose weight, pleaded guilty to federal child pornography charges – and having sex with minors! His plea deal with prosecutors means he'll spend between five and 12-and-a-half years in the pen. But that may not be enough for fellow inmates, who will make sure he gets the punishment he deserves, says an expert.

"Prisoners hate pedophiles, they're the lowest of the low in the system," says legal consultant and former Secret Service agent John A. Carman.

"Even the most violent murderers, bank robbers, drug dealers and gangbangers have kids or younger sisters and brothers.

Fogle's sordid secret life began to unravel in the spring when his close pal, Russell Taylor, 43, was arrested on child porn charges. Taylor was the executive director of The Jared Foundation, the Subway TV commercial star's non-profit dedicated to helping overweight kids.

The investigation quickly led right to Fogle's front door. In early July, federal agents raided his Indiana home. They

Fogle arranged for sex with minors during Subway business trips

Among the evidence were images of children as young as 6 – some of whom Fogle allegedly knew and referred to by name in messages to Taylor – engaging in sex acts. Taylor reportedly shot many of the photos and videos at his home and shared them with Fogle to feed their sick fetish.

Federal prosecutors also revealed Fogle, 37, planned his business trips for Subway to coincide with his illicit trysts with minors. In November 2012, he arranged for a paid sex session with “Minor Victim 13” – a 17-year-old girl – at Manhattan’s Plaza hotel while he was in town making appearances for the New York City Marathon.

According to court documents, after sleeping with the girl, he asked her to find him someone younger, saying he “would accept a 16-year-old,” but “the younger, the better.”

As part of his plea, Fogle will pay $1.4 million in restitution – $100,000 to each of his 14 underage victims. He’s also being divorced by his disgusted wife of five years, Katie, the mother of his two children.

And more bad news for Fogle – the judge could throw out his deal and send him to the slammer for up to 50 years.

“Jared took advantage of young kids for his selfish cravings,” adds Carman. “Now, he’s going to see what it’s like to be tossed into a shark tank with blood-thirsty predators.”

SHANNEN DOHERTY'S BREAST CANCER CRISIS

Shannen (circled) and the original 90210 cast

FORMER Beverly Hills, 90210 beauty Shannen Doherty is facing a horrific breast cancer nightmare – including a mastectomy and chemotherapy – after a health insurance catastrophe.

The 44-year-old actress confirmed she was diagnosed with the disease in March and is “currently undergoing treatment. I am continuing to eat right, exercise and stay very positive about my life.”

She’s also clobbered her former business manager at Tanner, Mainstain, Glynn & Johnson with a lawsuit claiming her health insurance was canceled in 2014 because the firm blundered and didn’t pay the premiums.

The suit charges that if she’d been insured and able to visit a doctor using co-pays, the cancer could have been stopped early on.

Instead, she learned of the ram-paging disease after she was able to start up her health insurance again. Doherty says she didn’t see doctors earlier because she didn’t want to pay their entire fees by herself.

The cancer has since spread to “at least one lymph node,” and she faces losing her breasts and other grueling treatments.

Now wed to third husband Kurt Iswarienko, the former TV bad girl says she can’t work because of her disease.

QUEEN Elizabeth has made a devastating, bombshell confession – her son, Prince Charles, was behind a sinister plot that enlisted British spymasters to murder his ex-wife, Princess Diana!

Di and her Muslim lover, Dodi Fayed, were horrifically killed on Aug. 31, 1997, when their chauffeur-driven Mercedes crashed in a Paris tunnel. French authorities said driver Henri Paul, who also died, was drunk and driving too fast. But in an earth-shattering revelation, author Ingrid Seward says moments after learning about the tragedy, Queen Elizabeth blurted out:

“Someone must have greased the brakes!”

The Queen’s bombshell admission that the crash was NO ACCIDENT appears to confirm Diana’s worst fears – that her ex-husband wanted her rubbed out.

“This is the smoking gun that finally puts Charles in the frame,” said one royal source.

Another insider tells GLOBE the Queen had repeatedly heard from “courtiers and sources close to the government that Charles wanted Di dead.”

She even learned that “Di was telling her Palace staff that Charles was out to get her. But the Queen didn’t want to believe any of it and bought into the story that Diana was just ‘a crazy girl.’”

Certainly, Charles tried to paint Diana as emotionally fragile.

In The Queen’s Speech, Seward also revealed just how badly relations between Charles and Diana had broken down.

“Don’t you realize? She’s mad, mad and mad,” Charles shouted on the phone to his mother after his plans to take sons William and Harry to the royals’ country residence in Sandringham were dashed by Diana, who had different plans.

For years, sources have claimed Di was snuffed out because she knew too many embarrassing Palace secrets, including Charles’ gay trysts. She also planned to marry Dodi, who was a Muslim and a threat to the Royal Family’s carefully groomed image.

Shockingly, the Princess had left an “insurance” letter, discovered months after the wreck, declaring she was terrified Charles wanted her out of the picture. He was cheating with Camilla, now his wife.

“My husband is planning ‘an accident’ in my car, brake failure and serious head injury...” wrote Diana. in the note penned before her death in the Pont de l’Ama tunnel and given to her butler, Paul Burrell, for safe-keeping.

After her death, Russian author Gennady Sokolov charged the brakes in Di's Mercedes were, indeed, sabotaged by military-trained assassins recruited by three senior officers from Britain's MI6 spy agency.

They used the "Boston Brakes" method where an electronic device is planted in the car that "disabled the steering wheel and brakes" by a radio signal.

Sokolov said the deadly signal was triggered by an agent disguised as a photographer, possibly on a motorcycle, who was following the car in the tunnel.

The Russian further charged investigators were kept from testing the car afterwards by powerful people.

His claims that Di and Dodi were murdered were bolstered by the mysterious death of celeb lensman John Andanson.

The photog had previously worked as a spy for British and French secret services and was believed to be driving a white Fiat Uno that was seen following Di's Mercedes and swiped it in the tunnel just before the crash.

Three years later, the 54-year-old's charred body was found in a wrecked car in a rural region of France.

The May 2000 death was ruled a suicide, but French firefighter Christophe Pelat said he saw the body up close and was "absolutely convinced he had been shot in the head — twice!"

A month later, armed men invaded Andanson's photo agency and stole his computers and cameras.

before her death. Some sources insist he was murdered to silence him.

One of the last photos of Di alive showed her and Dodi in an elevator getting ready to leave the Ritz hotel. They climbed into their Mercedes, which sped off followed by photographers – in cars and at least one on a motorcycle.

In the tunnel, the car appeared to swerve out of control after being swiped by the Fiat and crashed, fatally injuring Di, Dodi and driver Paul.

Sources say Charles and the Royals wanted Di silenced because “she knew every skeleton in the Royal Family’s closet – including Charles’ trysts with both men and women. She had the power to destroy the monarchy.”

Now, the analysts who have claimed Di’s death was no accident are being supported by the Queen’s shocking “brakes” comment.

A Royal insider told GLOBE, “The Queen has known all along that Charles was involved in Diana’s death.

“The moment she was told about the car crash, it all came together in one horrific moment for Her Majesty.

That’s why she blurted out that the car brakes must have been greased. She was confirming it was an assassination and knew Charles was behind it.”

NEXT WEEK: THE SECRET DIANA DOCUMENTS THAT WILL SHOCK THE WORLD!

FIRST FEMALE

DON’T mess with Kristen Griest and Shaye Haver – they’re officially the two roughest gals in the world!

And they proved it after completing a nightmare 62-day training program to make history by becoming the first female U.S. Army Rangers and certified special ops warriors.

Like Demi Moore’s character in the classic flick G.I. Jane, the gutsy gals qualify to fight alongside men on the most dangerous military missions.

“They are the two toughest women in the world,” says a military insider. “It takes a whole hell of a lot to accomplish what they did – brains, determination and sheer guts.”

The strenuous training they endured has made burly, combat-hardened men cry and quit. But they survived with flying colors.

Grist, a helicopter pilot from Connecticut, and Haver, a military police officer from Texas, started in a class of 381 men and 19 women.

During their ordeal, they were forced to go without sleep and survive on scraps while their ability to handle the harshest conditions was put to the test in forests, swamps and mountains.

After two months, the punishing conditions had whittled down their Ranger school class to Griest and Haver, who are also graduates of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, and 94 men – less than 25 percent of the original group.

For their final tests, the women completed at least 49 pushups, 59 sit-ups, six chin-ups, ran five miles in 40 minutes, completed a 12-mile march – carrying a full pack – in three hours in addition to swimming and mountaineering tests.

They also did three parachute jumps, four assaults from a helicopter and 27 days of mock combat patrols.

Griest and Haver passed without any special treatment for being “girls.”

“They made it a point to meet the men’s standard because we knew that was just going to fuel the attitude of people who don’t want women there,” says Janine Davidson, a former Air Force commander and senior pilot.

They also proved America’s gals are tough enough to fight alongside the nation’s guys.

“This course has proven that every soldier, regardless of gender, can achieve his or her full potential,” says John M. McHugh, Secretary of the Army.

Even though Chelsea left her mom's Nyack, N.Y., home without vital medication on Aug. 11, Rosie, 53, didn't notify authorities for five days.

Then, on Aug. 18, she issued an Internet plea for help locating her missing adopted child. Lawmen found the 17-year-old the next day – hiding in the Barnegat, N.J., house of an ex-con and suspected heroin addict she'd met through an online dating service.

Rosie issued an Internet alert (above) for her daughter Chelsea, who went missing from their Nyack, N.Y., home on Aug. 11

The cops traced the wayward teen through her cell phone. When an officer checked the place out, he says Chelsea's online pal, 25-year-old Steven Sheerer, was evasive concerning the girl's whereabouts.

But the officer found the teen hiding in Sheerer's attic along with her 6-month-old therapy dog, Bear. Cops say Chelsea was "of sound mind and body" when found. Meanwhile, Rosie admitted to some failings as a parent, lamely posting, "No mom is perfect – we all do our best."

But experts question if Rosie's "best" is good enough after she cited "personal reasons" for not reporting her missing child sooner.

Eileen King, founder of Justice for Children,

ROSIE'S A ROTTEN MOM!

TROUBLED DAUGHTER FOUND with drug

Chelsea (circled) with Rosie and two of her four siblings. Her birth mother, Deanna Micolety (right), is fuming that Rosie didn't even tell her the girl was missing tells GLOBE, "I find this extremely troubling. Any parent that I know would have reported their missing child immediately."

Another expert also wondered why Rosie, who was involved in a custody battle with her ex-wife, Michelle Rounds, didn't act quicker. In court documents, Rounds accused the TV queen of being an "indifferent" parent and requested sole custody of their two-year-old daughter, Dakota.

The case is still in court and experts say the latest episode could spell trouble.

"What kind of mother doesn't report their own child missing, especially one with disabilities?" ponders behavioral specialist Dr. Lillian Glass. "It doesn't make any sense to me."

"The only reason I can think

BATTLING MOMS

Rosie cited 'personal reasons' for her delay in reporting that mentally ill Chelsea had disappeared without vital medication. Experts are blasting her for that decision of was that she was too embarrassed. Maybe she thought she could find her daughter on her own and none of this would become public.

"But I can tell you this, if my dog went missing, I'd be out there asking for help within an hour. How could a mother with a disabled child not do the same?"

And a source close to the blustery celebrity says, "Rosie is very concerned about the guy Chelsea was found with. She's trying to figure out what to do next."

Records reportedly show Sheerer was once arrested for child endangerment after he was nabbed with drugs in a car with a woman and her two toddlers. He served 53 days in jail on those charges and was put on probation for heroin possession.

Prior to Chelsea being found, her birth mother,

Deanna Micolety, claimed the girl had been trying to find her and wondered why Rosie didn't contact her when she disappeared.

"Chelsea asked me where I was living because she was going to come to see me," recalled Micolety. "I wasn't aware she was missing. Why wouldn't Rosie contact me to let me know? I'm very worried. Extremely worried."

Although Chelsea was found safe and sound, noted New York City psychologist Dr. Judy Kuriansky tells GLOBE, "Rosie is a narcissist who lives in her own world and makes her own rules. Her procrastination was irresponsible and outrageous. This could have had a very tragic ending."

WHAT REALLY KILLED ROWDY RODDY!

Piper had suffered from cancer

LEGENDARY pro wrestler Rowdy Roddy Piper died from a heart attack triggered by a blood clot in his lungs.

That's the real story behind the 61-year-old WWE Hall of Famer's sudden death at his Hollywood home on July 31. Although no autopsy was performed, the L.A. County coroner recently released Piper's death certificate, listing the cause of death as "cardiopulmonary arrest."

A favorite on the professional wrestling circuit for 45 years, Piper had long battled health problems. Diagnosed with Hodgkin's lymphoma in 2006, he was declared cancer-free last November. But Piper also suffered from chronic high blood pressure, a known risk factor for blood clots.

As GLOBE previously reported, the decision not to perform an autopsy caused speculation about a cover-up, particularly because the wrestler once predicted he wasn't "going to make 65."

It's hard to believe bawdy Bette Midler will be 70 years old in December. The 5-foot-1 dynamo started out singing in a gay bathhouse. Since then, she's earned two Oscar nods and three Golden Globes and has sold 30 million records. Named after a screen icon, she's just completed her worldwide Divine Intervention Tour. Here are 10 things you didn't know about the Divine Miss M:

10 THINGS YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT BETTE MIDLER

1. Born in Honolulu to seamstress Ruth, she was named after Bette Davis, while her sisters are named after Susan Hayward and Judy Garland.

2. Her father thought performing was a total waste of time and wanted her to be a teacher or a nurse.

3. She turned down the Whoopi Goldberg role in Sister Act.

4. She started her career by singing and telling stories in the Continental Baths, a Turkish bathhouse in New York frequented by gay men, earning the nickname Bathhouse Betty.

5. She took the job in 1970 because it paid $300 for two nights a week - better than the $200 she was getting for playing the eldest daughter in the original Broadway musical Fiddler on the Roof.

6. Her accompanist in the bathhouse was none other than Barry Manilow, who produced her first album in 1972.

7. The first time she heard Wind Beneath My Wings, she vowed, 'I'm not singing that!' It became her biggest-ever hit!

8. Midler describes appearing on American Idol, in 2007's Season 6 finale, as "one of the worst experiences of my life."

9. She worked at a Dole pineapple processing plant in her early years.

10. Midler was Johnny Carson's final guest on The Tonight Show on May 21, 1992, alongside the late Robin Williams.

ROBERT DOWNEY IS KING OF WORLD!

FORGET Iron Man, former bad boy Robert Downey Jr. is the solid GOLD man after raking in a staggering $80 million this year, placing him firmly atop the Forbes' list of the World's Highest-Paid Actors for the third time in a row!

The 50-year-old father of three was only in two movies between June 2014 and June 2015, but his superhuman star power helped The Judge and Avengers: Age of Ultron rule the box office. Action man Jackie Chan trailed in second with $50 million and Fast and Furious tough guy Vin Diesel made third place with $47 million.

THEY DIDN'T HAV

THE COPS blew it!

That's the shocking charge from experts who claim a couple and six kids would be alive today if bungling Houston, Texas, lawmen did their job and listened to frantic warnings that a murderous rampage was taking place.

Incredibly, police answered THREE 911 distress calls for help at the house where accused killer David Conley was hiding and holding ex-wife Valerie Jackson and her family hostage – but did NOTHING!

Each time the officers left the residence without attempting to enter, saying: “No response inside the home, home secured.”

Only after a fourth call nearly nine hours later – and a shootout – did cops discover the Aug. 8 bloodbath.

Valerie, 40, her husband Dwayne, 50, their children, Honesty, 11, Dwayne Jr., 10, Caleb, 9, Trinity, 7, Jonah, 6, and Nate, 13, her son with Conley, had been coldly executed with shots to the back of the head.

Now, experts are slamming police, saying the family of eight didn't have to die.

Says criminal defense attorney

Conley held the family hostage, killing them one by one

UNDER ARREST

Grant Scheiner, “I’m just astonished that the officers didn’t investigate further.

“There are so many things they could have done to confirm the nature of the call, short of kicking down the door.

“And if they thought someone was in danger, they should have kicked down the door. A door can be replaced. What a tragedy.”

Conley, 49, whose 30-year rap sheet includes two jail terms for beating Valerie, is being held in jail without bond. He is showing no remorse, according to cops.

In chilling interviews, the suspect ranted against the precious children he’s charged with brutally slaying, raving, “They were growing up to be monsters, they were disrespectful, rude in school.

“God says in the Bible, do not disrespect your mother and father or your days will be short...”

Cops say the tragedy unfolded after an armed and violent Conley invaded the brick house through an unlocked widow.

He captured the adults and children, handcuffed them and herded them into the master bedroom, say police. Somehow, early on, terrified Valerie managed to send her mom, Barbara Yanske, an Internet message to get help.

Police responded to the mother’s 911 call at 10:42 a.m. She’d reported her daughter was being held at gunpoint in the home. But cops left without checking inside the house – and did the same following two more desperate calls at 4:42 and 6:10 p.m.

Meanwhile, over the course of the day, Conley ruthlessly pumped a slug from a 9 mm handgun he'd bought online into the back of each hostage's head, say cops. Dwayne was the first to die.

Finally, an hour after a fourth desperate 911 call came in at 7:51 p.m., police returned to the house. This time, they looked through a window and saw a child's body. When four officers tried to storm the place, they were met with a hail of gunfire and were forced to retreat.

Following an hour's standoff, Conley surrendered and cops discovered the bloodbath.

Sadly, Conley's estranged wife, Vernessa, 48, says she'd been brutalized by him on a daily basis.

"He's the devil. He just was an evil person. He had an evil spirit," she says.

And just a month before the massacre, Conley was arrested for attacking Valerie. She changed the locks on her house, but it did no good.

Now, Harris County District Attorney Devon Anderson says prosecutors will determine if Conley will face the death penalty. But she described the case against him as a slam dunk, calling it, "a no-brainer."

REALITY TV DIVA'S KILLER WAS HENPECKED!

FORMER male model Robert Reagan is accused of using a knife to murder his reality show diva lover Loredana Nesci – but he claims it was self-defense!

And a pal reveals the accused killer was terrified of the bullying beauty!

The 51-year-old contractor, who modeled for Armani, Calvin Klein and other top designers in the '80s, is charged with slaying 47-year-old Nesci, the lawyer star of the reality show Loredana, Esq. on SundanceTV.

His lawyer, Shepard Kopp, claims, “Robert is not guilty of committing any criminal offense,” he was “defending himself” when the “terrible tragedy” happened.

Pal and real estate broker Todd Bernstein, who sold homes for the couple, backed Reagan's self-defense claim, saying, “She attacked Robert with a hunting knife in the midst of a domestic dispute.

“Robert tried to disarm her. In the intense struggle, she tragically suffered a fatal wound.”

Bernstein also described Reagan as a “sweet guy” who was totally henpecked and cowed by the raven-haired hellion, who was the mother of his toddler son, Rocco. The legal eagle and former L.A. cop was “highly trained in the use of deadly weapons,” says Bernstein.

“Robert was intimidated by Loredana. She was bossy, bitchy, dangerous, a real piece of work. She trained. She kick-boxed. She used to be a cop. Yes they were in love, but he was afraid of her.”

Bernstein says when he first met the contractor, who renovated and flipped properties with Nesci, in 2013, Reagan warned him about his bossy lover.

“He said, ‘She’s tough. She’s a killer in business. She’s a killer attorney, a badass. I’m afraid of her and I’m her boyfriend!’”

Neighbors say the couple’s relationship was a fiery fatal attraction – full of hot sex and loud fights. They reportedly clashed over renovations to their Redondo Beach home.

“It seemed they were always arguing about the house,” says neighbor Adam Gorelick. “These would last anything from a half hour to an hour.”

Other friends reveal Nesci had a tender heart behind her tough gal image.

“Loredana was the nicest person you ever met,” says pal Tori Moorhead. “She helped so many people” and never turned away someone who needed her assistance. “It was never about money with her clients.”

But her accused killer is facing a money crunch. Reagan’s in a California clink being held on murder charges until he can post $1 million bond.

ARIANA GRANDE fans are fighting mad over talk-show host Wendy Williams' not-so-nice comments about the baby-faced singer.

Boo-hoo! Now get a life!

Here's what Wendy said:

"She's 21. She'll forever look 12. And I don't mean that in a good way. It's nice to look younger than you are, but when you look too young and then you're short - she's only like 4-foot-11. I don't look at her as, like, a woman."

Good for you Wendy! But you didn't go far enough. There's a lot more to be said about this little snot-nose.

Yes, Grande DOES look 12. But she also ACTS 12!

I haven't forgotten about The Great Donut Incident of 2015, but apparently some of Grande's fans have chosen to.

Let me remind you how she was caught on camera licking donuts on display at a California eatery and proclaiming how she hated America.

How the hell can you be offended by what Wendy said but not disgusted by the words and actions of Little Girl Grande? (American troops are risking their lives every day and she has the nerve to criticize the nation that has given her the opportunity to earn millions.)

And despite her pint-sized body, she apparently was still tall enough to reach the donuts on the counter and grossly lick them.

And Wendy is so right. Grande doesn't look like a woman.

If you ask me, she looks like your run-of-the-mill dumbass!

AND ONE MORE THING...

You've got to love these celebs

BORIS KARLOFF'S HAUNTED MANSION IS UP FOR SALE

Horror-movie star Boris Karloff lived in the home in the 1930s and '40s

The secluded estate boasts wood-beam ceilings, spacious rooms and a large pool surrounded by lush gardens

If you're in the market for a dazzling Hollywood haunt, a 1927 mansion that once belonged to movie mummy Boris Karloff is on the market for a monstrous $7.4 million!

For the price, you get a pristine piece of property in L.A.'s Coldwater Canyon area with a load of luxury appointments - and your very own ghost!

Katharine Hepburn, who lived in the 5,000-square-foot Mexican-style house for five years before horror movie legend Karloff bought it in the 1930s, swore a spunky spirit inhabited the place.

Hepburn insisted she frequently encountered a ghost "who moved her furniture around and jiggled latches."

Owner Karloff, who made

Kate Hepburn swore she saw ghostly antics his mark playing the Frankenstein monster, never talked about the ghoulish goings on at the five-bedroom crib, which features six bathrooms, whitewashed masonry walls, tiled floors, beamed ceilings, indoor and outdoor fireplaces, a library, pool and a wine cellar.

Amazingly, the deluxe pad DOESN'T come with its own crypt or graveyard. And Karloff has definitely left the building! HIS ghost is said to haunt his final home, Roundabout, in Bramshot, England.

80 SUPERSTARS OF THE 1980s!

IN this final installment of the blockbuster series 80 stars from the 1980s, GLOBE brings you up to date on what happened to fan favorites from hit sitcoms Growing Pains, Too Close for Comfort, 227, Empty Nest and the cop drama Cagney & Lacey.

Tyne and Sharon's acting careers are going strong

TYNE DALY, SHARON GLESS

SHARON "CHRISTINE CAGNEY" GLESS turned to booze as she dealt with the fallout from her affair with the show's executive producer, Barney Rosenzweig, who dumped his wife to wed to the blonde bombshell. Eventually, Gless beat the bottle and landed a seven-year run playing Madeline Westen on the Miami-based spy drama Burn Notice. Her character was killed off.

Meanwhile, a terrible gambling addiction snuffed the career of co-star John Karlen, 82, who played Tyne Daly's hubby, Harvey. By 1997, he was penniless. Since then he's landed small parts and battled health problems linked to his diabetes.

NOW

John Karlen (above) hit hard times

But his 69-year-old TV wife Tyne, who stopped playing Mary Beth Lacy in 1988, landed on her feet. She had a six-year stint on TV's Judging Amy - but really made her mark in theater. She won a Tony for playing Mama Rose in Gypsy in 1990 and in 2011 was inducted into the Theater Hall of Fame.

SINCE the show's run from 1985 to 1992, members of the sitcom's family have suffered through their own Growing Pains battling booze and aging.

Tracey Gold, who played daughter Carol Seaver, grappled with an eating disorder and beat booze demons following a 2004 DUI bust. Now the mother of four sons with movie consultant Roby Marshall, she appeared on Celebrity Wife Swap and the 2014 TV movie My Dad's a Soccer Mom.

Her TV brother Jeremy "Ben Seaver" Miller, also had an alcohol problem after the show ended. He recovered after a stint in rehab. Now 38, he's quit acting and is a patient advocate in Santa Ana, Calif.

Meanwhile, the Seaver mom Joanna "Maggie" Kerns, 62, says good acting roles dried up as her age advanced. So to stay in showbiz, she jumped behind the camera to direct hits like Jane the Virgin and Pretty Little Liars.

Her TV hubby Alan "Jason" Thicke's age is really showing as he hawks tax solutions on TV commercials. The 68-year-old, who's had roles on Married ...With Children, 7th Heaven, Hope & Gloria and How I Met Your Mother, turned reality star in a TV Guide Channel show that featured visits from his pop star son Robin, 38. Alan has been married three times and is currently wed to 40-year-old Bolivian-born actress Tanya Callau.

EMPTY NEST GANG IS PRETTY NUTTY!

AFTER her run as Barbara Weston ended in 1995, Kristy McNichol, 52, was diagnosed as bipolar - and quit Hollywood because she wanted to "see what else was out there." Kristy officially discovered she was gay and came out of the closet in 2012 in a bid to help kids who are bullied because of their sexual orientation. She's been with partner, Martha Allen-Miles, for more than two decades!

Meanwhile, her TV sister Dinah "Carol" Manoff's acting career hit a bump since she appeared in the 2008 movie

David "Joe Isuzu" Leisure - who played the girls' neighbor Charley Dietz - has been working steadily, including roles on daytime soaps. He was featured in Touched by an Angel and has been in a number of movies, including 10 Things I Hate About You. Leisure and third wife Patty Bunch briefly separated in 2000, with Bunch, a makeup art ist, saying their careers drove them apart. But they've patched things up and are back together.

80 SUPERSTARS OF THE 1980s!

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

WHEN Nancy Dussault, 79, finished playing Muriel Rush in the family sitcom Too Close for Comfort in 1987, she landed small parts on such shows as Mad About You, Matlock, and Family Law but found steady work elusive. She played her last screen role on Alias in 2001 and admits, "I had a really a good career in television that has slowed down CONSIDERABLY!" Dussault was the first co-host of ABC's Good Morning America, with David Hartman, from 1975 to 1977.

Meanwhile, Jim J. Bullock, who played Monroe Ficus, bizarrely teamed with the late Tammy Faye (Bakker) Messner for a short-lived talk show in 1996 - the same year he confessed he was HIV-positive.

The 60-year-old also became addicted to drugs, but finally straightened up and won an award in 2000 for his performance in the musical revue, When Pigs Fly.

HEARTACHE & HUNGER FOR 227 CAST

AFTER the five-year series 227 went off the air in 1990, sassy Emmy winner Jackee Harry landed roles on the sitcoms The First Family and Disney's Girl Meets World. But the 59-year-old has turned diet pitchperson - plugging a vitamin product she claims "curtails my cravings for unhealthy foods," and releases her "untapped energy" while managing her weight.

Co-star Regina King, 44, who played Brenda Jenkins on the

NBC sitcom, is eating her heart out. Before a 2007 shocking divorce, the devastated star charged husband Ian Alexander Sr. cheated, used drugs and physically abused her! And heartache struck again during her long romance with "Cosby" kid Malcolm-Jamal Warner that sadly crashed in 2013. However, Regina's acting career flourished even as her love life sank. She's had roles in movies like Boyz n the Hood and on TV's 24. She also owned the L.A. eatery Paio.

As for Hal Williams, who played 227 patriarch Lester, he's working hard at age 76. He appeared on TV's Parks and Recreation earlier this year and hosts the annual Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation's telethon.

ROBIN'S WIDOW HIT BY CASH CRUNCH!

THE bitter battle over Robin Williams' estate has reached a fever pitch!

His heartbroken widow Susan Schneider is desperately asking a court for more money to maintain payments on the Tiburon, Calif., home she shared with the late funnyman – and his children are fighting her tooth and nail.

Susan, Williams' third wife, has locked horns with his three grown kids from previous marriages over everything from the Mrs. Doubtfire star's personal items to cash.

Now, the widow is claiming that she doesn't have enough money to pay for the mortgage, insurance and upkeep on the San Francisco-area mansion Williams left her in his will. It's the same house where the tragic superstar took his own life on Aug. 11, 2014, at age 63.

She adds that she hasn't received any money since her husband's shocking death.

Fight with comic's kids leaves her TOO BROKE to maintain death house

Williams' widow, Susan Schneider, says she may lose the Tiburon, Calif., mansion where he committed suicide

FEUDING FAMILY

Robin's kids Cody (left), Zak and Zelda are battling Susan in court over their tragic dad's estate

Meanwhile, his kids, Zak, 32, Zelda, 25, and Cody, 23, reportedly insist Susan is exaggerating and crying poor in a flat-out money grab.

Sick to his stomach

While the children inherited the bulk of Williams' $130 million fortune, the late Oscar winner left Susan a trust including the $8 million home and money for its upkeep.

One source says that Williams would be "sick to his stomach" over the wrangling.

"Robin always hoped his children and Susan would grow as a family as time went on," explains the source.

"So this really compounds the tragedy of his suicide."

Courageous newsman Chris Cuomo

CNN ANCHOR SAVES SWIMMER

GUTSY newsman Chris Cuomo made headlines himself by heroically rescuing a drowning man!

While boating on Long Island's Peconic River near popular Sunset Beach, the 45-year-old CNN anchor, whose brother is New York Gov. Andrew Cuomo, spotted an older man in the ocean being swept away in a strong rip current.

Cuomo threw him a life preserver, but the man still couldn't fight the raging stream. So the New Day star dove into the perilous waters and dragged the arm-weary swimmer to the shallows, where a police boat eventually picked them up.

"If he hadn't done this, the man surely would have drowned," notes an eyewitness. "The police didn't seem to realize who Chris was but told him: 'You saved this guy. That was heroic.' But he was very humble about it."

Medical news YOU can use!

EMERGENCY SURVIVAL TIPS EVERYONE NEEDS TO KNOW

IF you have a medical emergency while alone, you may have to save your own life!

“Quick thinking makes the difference in life-threatening situations,” says emergency prevention expert Dr. Jeffrey Pellegrino.

Here are some survival tips every GLOBE reader MUST know:

■ Choking: If something lodges in your airway, try to cough it up. You can also perform a version of the Heimlich maneuver by making a fist with one hand, covering it with the other hand, and thrusting up into your abdominal cavity just above the belly button. Or thrust your upper belly against the top edge of a chair using short, sharp motions.

■ Bleeding: Apply direct pressure to the wound with a clean object like a sock, towel or T-shirt. Raise the wound above heart level to reduce blood flow.

When choking, try to cough up the item

Lying on the floor with legs up helps when feeling faint

■ Severed finger: Stop the bleeding then find the amputated digit. Rinse it carefully with water to remove bacteria and wrap it in a clean paper towel. Put it in a bag of crushed ice to take with you to the hospital.

■ Heart problems: Call 911 immediately and chew two low dose (81 mg.) aspirins. Lie down with your head and shoulders slightly raised, and take deep breaths.

■ Feeling faint: Try to unlock your door, then call 911 and lie on the floor with legs raised to help blood flow to your brain.

New stomach balloon helps weight loss

➤ THERE'S a new weapon in the war on obesity - a balloon! The FDA recently approved an inflatable medical balloon that fills up space in the stomach, leading to weight loss. In a procedure lasting less than 30 minutes, doctors insert the balloon into a patient's stomach with an endoscope, then fill it with a saline solution. The weight-loss balloons work by reducing stomach capacity, causing people to feel full with less food.

High blood sugar ups Alzheimer's risk

➤ HIGHER than normal blood sugar has been linked to Alzheimer's disease. Middle-age test subjects with the high blood pressure, which can lead to Type 2 diabetes, scored lower on memory tests, according to researchers at the University of Wisconsin. Professor Barbara Bendlin, who headed the study, notes people with poor diets, who are overweight and don't get enough exercise, are likely to develop high blood sugar. "Healthier lifestyles may contribute to healthier brain aging."

DON'T FORCE YOURSELF TO DRINK WATER!

THE old health rule that you have to drink eight glasses of H₂O a day no longer holds water!

Orlando, Fla. based Dr. Gabe Mirkin notes "since food and everything you eat and drink contain water, you don't need much more."

"On normal days, most people can get by quite well with a cup of water three times daily with meals."

Exceptions are people who exercise intensely, sweat a lot or take medications such as antidepressants that give dry mouth.

Barbara Rolls, professor of Nutritional Sciences at Pennsylvania

State University, notes the body is 60 percent water. The liquid maintains metabolic functions like carrying nutrients to cells, eliminating wastes and regulating temperature.

But dehydration is dangerous. Common signs include thirst, headaches, fatigue and dark urine color.

However, Mirkin notes too much liquid "decreases levels of sodium, which is key in maintaining blood pressure."

"There is no health benefit from forcing yourself to drink eight glasses a day."

YOUR HOROSCOPE

For the week of September 7 - September 13

by Emily Hamer-West

ARIES March 21 - April 20

Venus is back in forward motion and so are you, Ram! Go ahead - make those changes you're craving. Look at the long-term costs of maintenance if you're shopping for clothing - dry-cleaning bills add up fast! You're motivated to improve your health - an Aquarius pal has good ideas!

TAURUS April 21 - May 21

It's time to spend a little cash and elbow grease to pretty up your home for fall. Hit a few yard sales under the weekend's Virgo new moon, and move the furniture around. A friend begs a favor midweek - don't make promises you can't keep. Single? Take that risk in romance - it'll be worth it!

GEMINI May 22 - June 21

Oh dear, your significant other or roommate has become Mr. or Miss Indecisive about everything from TV watching to what to eat for dinner. It's just the energy of Mercury in Libra, so roll with the flow, Twin. Forget trendy diets - calorie counting is your secret weapon. The number 9 is lucky.

CANCER June 22 - July 22

While Mercury argues with Pluto, you could be drawn into a heated situation. Resist your natural inclination to draw into your shell and stay quiet. It's time to let your voice be heard - long and loud! The week will end more peacefully, and profitable too - some Crabs will see a contest win!

LEO July 23 - August 23

It seems easy to just coast on your charming personality, but putting in the hard work necessary to accomplish your goals will pay off in cash rewards in the near future! Single and seeking? An old flame knows someone just perfect for you.

VIRGO August 24 - September 22

Pack envy into a box, and store it in the attic. There's no time to waste worrying about what other people are doing while Jupiter is in your sign. Use that time to pursue a passion, whether it's a hobby or a person, especially on Saturday!

LIBRA September 23 - October 23

Make "focus" your mantra this week - focus on the one you love, your job, and the budget! You've been dilly-dallying about a big decision, but now's the time to make a choice - get it done before it's too late! Midweek brings family news about a move that can change your life for the better!

SCORPIO October 24 - November 22

Take care of your belongings and jot down notes of the things you need to remember or they'll slip your mind this week. Work demands are high but happily the weekend allows for fun - and, if you're single, a meeting with a potential partner! Look for a neighbor to lead you to cash luck.

SAGITTARIUS November 23 - December 21

Paying attention is your secret to success, Archer! With Mercury in Libra, it's vital you read the fine print before agreeing to anything financial - and before you pay for any large items, too! Look for hidden motivation when someone is suddenly very kind, especially if it's at work!

CAPRICORN December 22 - January 20

You could be feeling as if you're waiting for the other shoe to drop in a career or financial matter, but worry not, Goat. The stars show smooth sailing ahead - and even a bit of luck linked to the signing of your name on a document! However, you need some downtime, so take a few days' rest.

AQUARIUS January 21 - February 18

Inner turmoil stirred up by career or home worries leads to tummy troubles and some ill health, but with Venus moving direct again, you can quickly get back on the path to wellness. You're motivated to re-organize your finances. Good timing! A look at the budget reveals extra cash for your wish list!

PISCES February 19 - March 20

Glitter and glamour aren't usually your thing, but a shopping trip with a Leo pal could change that and lead to a fab new look! Romance could be rocky, but trust the planets to reunite you if you're meant to be together. This weekend, look for travel bargains on airfare and hotels for a getaway.

MOLESTER JOSH CAUGHT IN CHEATING SCANDAL!

LOOKS like admitted child molester Josh Duggar has been up to even more dirty business!

The married pervert, a self-proclaimed advocate of devout religious faith and family values, who starred on TLC's 19 Kids and Counting reportedly used the notorious cheaters' hookup site AshleyMadison.com, whose motto is "Life is short. Have an affair!"

A Limited Commemorative Edition!

An American icon, John Wayne was a movie star and an enduring patriot who symbolized and communicated our great nation's values and ideals. In recognition for his unending dedication to and love of the United States, he was honored with the Congressional Gold Medal and the Presidential Medal of Freedom.

Now, inspired by artist Joe Petruccio's original black and white painting featuring Duke in a scene from the movie Hondo, Hamilton presents a rare, first-ever, limited edition 3D figurine — "John Wayne, The American Legend Platinum Edition."

Meticulously crafted and painted by hand!

Master Craftsmen individually craft every detail by hand — from the fringe and lacing on his western-style shirt to the upturned cuffs on his pants to show off his boots ... from his saddle bag and gun belt to the noble expression on his face. Then using only duo-tone paints — metallic platinum and glossy black — artisans hand-paint each figurine so no two are ever alike.

Angelea Preston calls out Tyra (right)

TYRANT TYRA IS TOTAL PHONY!

AN America's Next Top Model winner is blasting executive producer and judge Tyra Banks, calling her a fiendish fake who pretends to be a caring mentor but is actually a cruel tyrant.

Angelea Preston - who was stripped of her title in 2011 for being a former escort and is suing the show's bosses for $3 million - describes Banks as a stone-hearted ogre.

"Sometimes we would work 20 hours straight filming," says Angelea. "If the camera's not rolling, we can't say anything. We'd be 'put on ice' for hours. Not eating, not drinking, not talking. You're guarded by crew members. It's like top model prison!"

And the only time they saw "concerned" Tyra was when they were on camera. "Tyra was nonexistent. When the camera's stopped rolling, it's like she's a stranger," says Preston.

DAN RATHER is poised to reap vengeance on the forces that drove him from the CBS Evening News anchor chair in disgrace!

An upcoming movie, called Truth, will show Rather's controversial report on George W. Bush's military service was valid and accurate - despite being initially labeled bogus.

And to add to 83-year-old Rather's revenge, he will be portrayed by screen heartthrob Robert Redford, 78, who played crusading reporter Bob Woodward, who took down power-crazy Richard Nixon in All the President's Men.

"Dan's finally getting his revenge on CBS," a showbiz source tells GLOBE. "He feels he'll be vindicated once people see all the facts surrounding his fall. And with Redford playing him, it's a win-win!"

Rather's career exploded in the run-up to the 2004 presidential election between incumbent Bush and

Redford played reporter Bob Woodward in All the President's Men (far left) and now stars as Rather in Truth

Guard during the Vietnam War. He claimed the privileged heir to a political dynasty received preferential treatment.

Unfortunately for Rather and his news team, some of the documents used to support the report were discredited.

The ensuing scandal and backlash led to Rather's inglorious departure from the network in March 2005.

Rather insists the report was accurate, but he didn't receive support from CBS because it wanted to "pacify the White House."

"The nuanced, not preachy, script makes clear our report was true," Rather says about the new movie, due out Oct. 16. "Facts can't be denied."

MORGAN FREEMAN EXORCISM HORROR!

Star, 78, shattered as granddaughter said to be his lover dies in BIZARRE & BLOODY RITUAL

HEARTSICK Oscar winner Morgan Freeman is shattered after the bizarre exorcism murder of his granddaughter Edena Hines, who, shockingly, was also said to be his secret lover!

After learning the devastating news Edena was butchered on a Manhattan sidewalk in a twisted ritual, the grief-stricken 78-year-old Driving Miss Daisy star wrote, "The world will never know her artistry and talent. Her star will continue to shine bright in our hearts, thoughts and prayers. May she rest in peace."

The 33-year-old beauty died in a New York hospital. Police say her 30-year-old live-in boyfriend, Lamar Davenport, stabbed her 15 times during a bizarre, bloody exorcism.

During the savage 3 a.m. slaughter on Aug. 16, Davenport was screaming, "Get out, devils! In the name of Jesus Christ, I cast you out" says eyewitness George Hudacko, 65, who called 911.

Davenport was so crazed on drugs, cops say they found him still kneeling over Edena making wild stabbing motions with his hand – even though the knife was stuck in her chest.

The father of two was charged with second-degree murder and whisked to a mental ward for psychiatric observation – and arraigned in his hospital bed.

Strangely, Davenport's pal, musician Ray Rosario, said

CRIME SCENE

Bloodstains on the street where she was repeatedly stabbed

Morgan Freeman and Edena at the 2005 Golden Globe Awards. He also took her on movie promotion tours he'd been out to dinner with the couple just hours before the bloodbath and says they seemed "ecstatic."

Edena's slaying is particularly gut-wrenching for Freeman because their relationship went back so far. She was the granddaughter of Jeanette Adair Bradshaw, Freeman's wife from 1967 to 1979.

While the young actress wasn't Freeman's blood relative, he and second wife, costume designer Myrna Colley-Lee, 74, raised Edena since she was a child. She had small roles in two Freeman movies - Five Flights Up and Moll of Flanders. She was often his escort at Hollywood red carpet events.

But as GLOBE revealed in our Jan. 4, 2010, edition, sources insist there was much more to their relationship. The actor carried on a near-10 year affair with Edena, which began when she was 17, a source said.

Morgan was "totally smitten with the girl," said the source, who noted the gray-haired star enjoyed intimate nights with Edena, wining and dining her in swanky hotels while on the road promoting his flick, Invictus.

GLOBE also noted Freeman had also been carrying on an affair with former teacher Mary Joyce Hays, while still seeing Edena! However, his relationship with Edena reportedly helped trigger the end of Freeman's 25-year marriage to Colley-Lee.

The divorce, finalized in 2010, awarded Colley-Lee a staggering $400 million settlement without having to sign a gag order that prevented her from writing a book about his sex secrets, sources say.

Struggled

And about two years after GLOBE's report Freeman insisted there was no romantic relationship with Edena and denied "reports of a pending marriage."

Meanwhile, Edena's showbiz career struggled until recently. She landed a part in the indie flick Landing Up, which began filming in June. However, her love life was the pits.

Her friend Carl Hancock Rux, a 38-year-old writer and theater director, believed her relationship with Davenport was doomed.

Rux described Davenport as "clearly troubled." He says he'd seen Davenport falling down drunk and wishes he'd warned Edena to leave him.

Sources reveal Davenport had been taken to the hospital for "a medical issue involving drugs" in January. He also had a conviction for marijuana possession and a 2010 petty larceny bust.

Says Rux, "I didn't see the attraction and didn't understand what was good about the relationship."

SOFIA'S BOOBS GOING BUST!

SOFIA VERGARA is thinking about downsizing her chest!

The 43-year-old Modern Family beauty boasts size 32F boobs but admits that they've started to lose their "perkiness."

"When I lay down, they go down like all the way," she says. "It's not funny. I wish I had fake boobs."

The Colombian-born bombshell - now engaged to hunky Magic Mike XXL actor Joe Manganiello - admits her giant gazongas have always caused problems.

"My whole life, buying a bra was a nightmare," she moans.

Now, she may follow the lead of her ABC sitcom co-star Ariel Winter, who recently had her own F-cup breasts reduced to a more palatable D-cup. The results seemed to impress Sofia.

"She was like, 'Oh my God, I love them! They're great!' " Ariel recalls.

CRYER BARES BALD TRUTH ON NCIS

FUNNYMAN Jon Cryer is going topless - kinda - as a "badass doctor" when NCIS returns on CBS Sept. 22.

After playing hapless Alan Harper with hair for nearly 12 years on Two and a Half Men, the 50-year-old actor is baring his natural bald look as he guests on the top-ranked drama.

Cryer takes the role of bespectacled Dr. Taft, a leading Navy surgeon who scrubs up to hopefully save the life of Special Agent Leroy Jethro Gibbs, played by Mark Harmon. During last season's finale, Gibbs was shot in an Iraqi marketplace by two different shooters. One was a teenager Gibbs had been caring for after his parents were killed by The Calling, a terrorist group that Mark Harmon (above right) and Emily Wickersham as Gibbs and Bishop. Jon Cryer's hair on Two and a Half Men (below) was fake recruits children online. Cryer admits he's been going bald for years and that his hair on the CBS comedy was an "elaborate illusion."

"It's amazing, actually, what they can do," he says. "I'm not wearing a hairpiece. It's a long involved process that starts with stuff like shoe polish that they coat your scalp with."

"This is the work of several talented professionals making the most of like four hairs."

Chrome-domed Cryer is appearing in three NCIS episodes, but says he'd like to do more.

"I'd be happy to come back," he confides. "But don't tell them that, I'll never be able to ask for a raise."

TV FACT

Megan Mullally's first boyfriend, Brad Hall, dumped her in college for Julia Louis-Dreyfus, whom he went on to wed. Mullally later auditioned for the role of Elaine on Seinfeld, but lost - to Louis-Dreyfus.

DAUBER'S BACK COACHING

FORMER Coach star Bill Fagerbakke is joining Craig T. Nelson in the new version of the hit sitcom that went off the air 18 years ago.

Fagerbakke, 57, who voiced Patrick Star on SpongeBob SquarePants for 15 years, will reprise his role as coach Hayden Fox's assistant, special teams coach Michael "Dauber" Dybinski.

In the new NBC series, Fox (Nelson) comes out of retirement to become assistant to his own son, who's the new head football coach at an Ivy League school.

Coach ran from 1989 to 1997 and also starred Jerry Van Dyke and Shelley Fabares. Van Dyke is expected to make guest appearances, but Fabares - who had a liver transplant in 2000 after being diagnosed with an auto-immune disorder - quit showbiz and is now a business whiz.

Bill Fagerbakke (circled) was in the original coach

'TALK'S' TYLER MEETS 'MINDS'

THE TALK co-host Aisha Tyler is joining the Behavioral Analysis Unit (BAU) on Criminal Minds this season.

She's filling the void left by the departure of Jennifer Love Hewitt and the short-term absence of A.J. Cook.

Hewitt, who gave birth to a boy in June, may return as a guest next year, while Cook - who plays Special Agent Jennifer "JJ"

Jareau - will be gone for five episodes on maternity leave.

Tyler will play Dr. Tara Lewis, a forensic psychologist who's hired by Aaron "Hotch" Hotchner (Thomas Gibson) to replace Kate Callahan (Hewitt), and she more than proves her worth to the team.

Tyler, 44, tearfully admitted on The Talk in 2013 that after years of trying, she and attorney hubby of 23 years, Jeff Tietjens, have given up hope of conceiving a child.

❶ What is Hetty's favorite drink on NCIS: Los Angeles?

❷ What are the first names of the Simon & Simon brothers?

❸ Where was The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air born and raised?

ANSWERS

1. A well brewed cup of tea 2. Rick and A.J. 3. West Philadelphia

TV NEWS EXTRA

BRITNEY'S DOING IT AGAIN

POPSTAR Britney Spears is making a guest appearance as an actress on a TV show for the first time in seven years.

The 33-year-old Oops!... I Did It Again singer has signed up for CW's sitcom Jane the Virgin, which centers on a virginal young Latina who is artificially inseminated by mistake.

She'll be an adversary of Rogelio De La Vega, played by Latin hunk Jaime Camil. Britney's so excited by her role that she sent an online message to fans saying, "See u at the Marbella Hotel soon. Guest starring on one of my favorite shows ever. Dream come true."

Camil then tweeted her, saying, "You're the absolute best, Britney. It will be an absolute honor to have you on the show. Dream come true for us."

Britney last guested on TV in How I Met Your Mother in 2008.

ONCE a place filled with fun and laughter, the Six Flags New Orleans amusement park is a silent, gator-filled swamp of rusted-out rides 10 years after Hurricane Katrina came roaring through The Big Easy in late August 2005.

Located just outside the city by Lake Pontchartrain, the 150-acre park was flooded when the city's levees failed. It was a month before crews came in to pump out the water, but the place is still a water-filled graveyard.

Abandoned roller coasters, graffiti-covered walls on dilapidated buildings and overgrown vegetation now serve as an eerie reminder of Katrina's destruction.

Although several plans to redevelop the property have fallen through over the years, several Hollywood flicks have been filmed at the empty park, including Jurassic World, Dawn of the Planet of the Apes, Killer Joe and Percy Jackson: Sea of Monsters.

Movie-makers praise the site

RUST IN PEACE!

Six Flags New Orleans was underwater for a month after the hurricane and is still swamp land

New Orleans theme park is WATERY GRAVEYARD 10 years after Katrina

A faded sign still warns of the coming storm for its wide open spaces and lack of nearby neighbors.

"It's not something that the city marketed," says Carroll Morton, Manager for Entertainment Industry Development in the New Orleans' mayor's office. "The productions came to us."

But shooting at the site does present some unique challenges. Film crews have to hire animal wranglers to keep actors safe from the snakes, wild boars and alligators that now call the dilapidated park home. The gators have been there since the raging floodwaters of Katrina came crashing through the gates – and some of the hungry reptiles now measure a massive 12 feet in length!

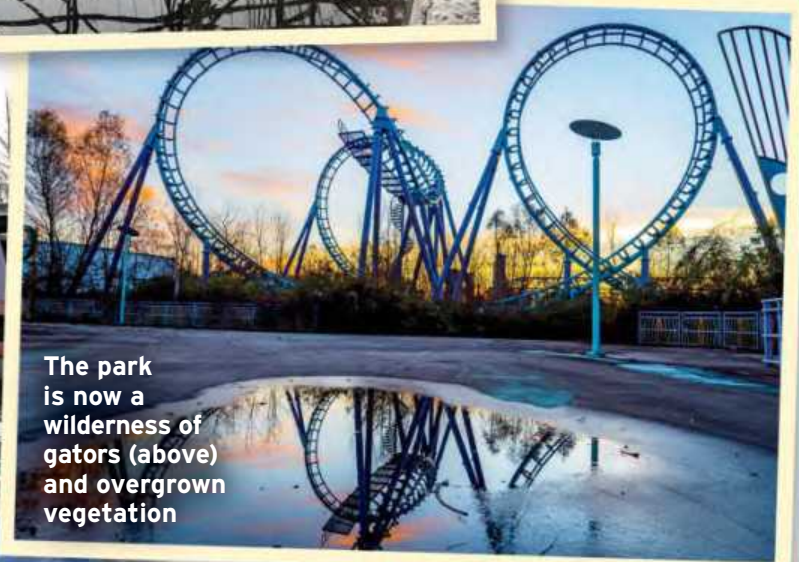

Photographer Seph Lawless, who shot a series of chilling images of the former fun zone, says the project was a sobering experience.

"It was surreal and apocalyptic," he says. "It felt like everyone had vanished."

The Ferris wheel and other attractions continue to decay

The park is now a wilderness of gators (above) and overgrown vegetation

MONKEE PETER TORK WAS SNARLING BOOZE HOUND!

MONKEES legend Peter Tork has made a shocking confession: he's a recovering boozier.

"I'm an alcoholic, and that means once I pick up the first drink – something gets triggered and I have no resistance," the 73-year-old TV icon says.

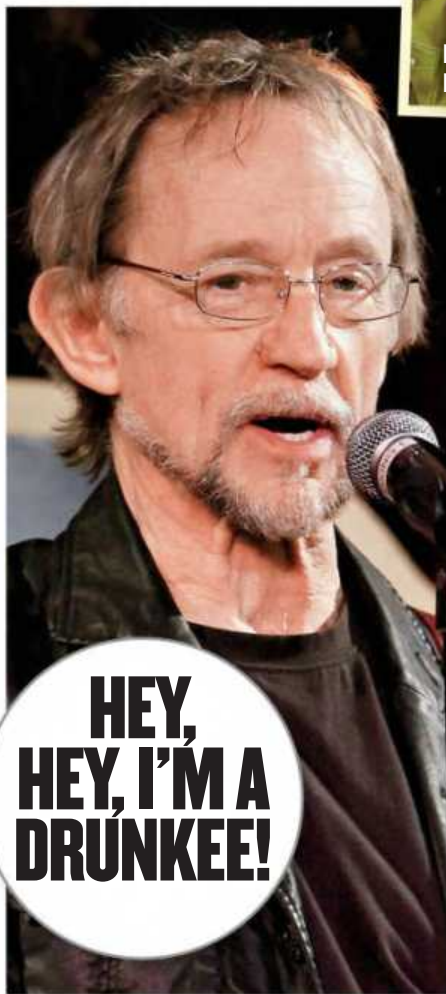

"So the answer is not to drink at all."

Amazingly, Tork has stayed on the wagon for 34 years, and it's a good thing, because he was a mean drunk.

"I was awful when I was drinking – snarling at people," he admits.

And booze wasn't his only demon. In 1972, four years after The Monkees – whose monster hits included I'm a Believer and Last Train to Clarksville – broke up, Tork was snared on hashish charges. He spent three months in prison.

Six years ago, he battled head and neck cancer and pulled through with the support of fourth wife Pam.

A few months from now, the group – composed of Tork, Mickey Dolenz, Mike Nesmith and the late Davy Jones, who died in 2012 – celebrates its 50th anniversary.

Based on the Beatles, the four were thrown together as a made-up band for The Monkees TV show which ran from 1966 to 1968.

Ironically, they spawned Daydream Believer and a slew of hits selling a mind-boggling 65 million records.

When the group reunited for tours in 1997 and 2001, there were reports of bickering. Tork admits "there were moments of tension."

This month, Tork and Dolenz, 70, perform in England at Birmingham's Moseley Folk Festival. Nesmith, who inherited a fortune from his mom, Bette, inventor of typewriter correction fluid, has dropped out.

As Mickey notes, "Mike travels to the beat of a different drum."

Terrence & Michelle had a nasty split

EMPIRE HUNK QUITS DOPE & PORN

NOTORIOUS bad boy Terrence Howard swears he's a changed man!

The Empire star, 46, testified he quit using drugs and watching porn after divorcing second wife Michelle Ghent in 2011!

In a hearing over the amount of support he pays Michelle, Howard, who just divorced third wife Mira Pak, told the judge he and Ghent regularly smoked weed, used ecstasy and cocaine, and watched porn together.

But now that Michelle is out of his life, so are his bad habits, he claimed.

"I refuse to get high," he said. "I refuse to watch porn."

Terrence currently pays Michelle $5,800 a month in spousal support, but she's angling for more because of the Oscar-nominated actor's success on Empire. He says he only agreed to pay because she threatened to release compromising photos and videos of him. She claims he's a deadbeat who owes her $500,000.

HAY, YOU'RE CUTE!

JACKIE COOGAN is clearly smitten by wife BETTY GRABLE at a western-themed Tinseltown party in 1940 - and he wasn't alone! The pretty blonde soon became the favorite pinup of America's servicemen during World War II when she was known as The Girl with the Million Dollar Legs. Grable ultimately divorced Coogan and wed big band leader HARRY JAMES in 1943. Meanwhile, her career soared with hits like Down Argentine Way, Mother Wore Tights, The Farmer Takes a Wife and How to Marry a Millionaire. Betty was only 56 when she died of lung cancer in 1973. Coogan went on to play Uncle Fester on TV's The Addams Family. He died of a heart attack in 1984.

Phoenix Rising From the Ashes

*Arresting beauty emerges from nature's fury
as Helenite explodes upon the jewelry world.*

When Mount St. Helens erupted and shook Washington State to its core, an ash column rose to an altitude of about 16 miles in less than 15 minutes with a vigorous emission of ash continuing for the next nine hours. Ultimately, an estimated 540 million tons of ash drifted up to 2,200 square miles settling over seven states. You could say Mount St. Helens caused quite the stir. But it was a surprising find discovered in the aftermath of the eruption that had locals talking long after the volcanic dust settled. Workers using a gas torch while doing salvage work discovered that the heat of the torch was melting the volcanic ash into a lustrous green substance. And there, amid the ancient ashes created from a mountain that first erupted in 10,000 BCE, Helenite was born.

The story got out and captured the attention of jewelers worldwide. It was a scramble to secure the magical ash from Mount St. Helens and perfect the heating process to achieve brilliant green stones that rival even the emerald in terms of color, refractive index and clarity. The world has never seen anything like Helenite.

Now, you can own this newest addition to the fine jewelry scene. We've acquired the world's finest quality Helenite and had it cut and faceted by skilled craftsmen into a gorgeous pendant erupting with vibrant color and fire. This is green like you've never seen it.
